Announcing the Launch of the Business Council for American Security

Dear Friends,

It brings us great pleasure to announce the establishment of the Business Council for American Security (BCAS), as a permanent and supporting membership within the American Security Project (ASP).

ASP was formed in 2005 by then Senators John Kerry, Chuck Hagel, Gary Hart and Warren Rudman to broaden the definition of U.S. national security for 21st century readiness. As a non-partisan 501(c)3, ASP covers broad issues affecting the U.S. - and indeed the world - including climate change, nuclear security, energy, diplomacy, and economic competitiveness, among others.

In the 21st Century, Business is positioned at the Nexus of Policy, the Market, and National Security

Informed by our research on the decline of U.S. economic competitiveness and what many view as a tragedy of the commons affecting business across all industries, the BCAS is meant to serve as an exclusive platform for networking, decision-support, and change. Bringing the voice of enterprise into the national security dialogue will not only enhance ASP's impact, it will enhance the role of business as a force for change.

BCAS membership confers 3 highly valuable member-oriented levels, with all tiers centered on our annual event series. In honor of ASP's tradition of recognizing the military flag officers who serve our nation and on our board, we have introduced the 2 Star, 3 Star and prestigious 4 Star membership categories. Each level is designed to provide enterprise-wide value for BCAS member organizations. The 2 Star level offers exclusive access to and recognition at ASP events. The 3 Star level introduces a dynamic decision support offering designed to help BCAS members navigate in an increasingly complex world. The prestigious 4 Star level offers premium services, including a dedicated ASP relationship manager, the appointment of a named adjunct fellow to ASP, and CEO-only roundtables and working groups.

As a 501(c)3, all financial support for ASP through BCAS membership is tax deductible.

An Unparalleled Opportunity to be an Inaugural BCAS Member

In our launch year, BCAS members who join at the 3 Star level, will receive all of the benefits and public identification as a 4 Star BCAS member.

Enclosed, please find a summary of benefits for BCAS, along with further background material on ASP. We hope you will join us in shaping a competitive business environment for the 21st century.

Sincerely,

Stephen A. Cheney

The American Security Project

American Security Project is a nonpartisan organization committed to educating the American public on the changing nature of national security in the 21st century and the development of innovative ideas to enhance national security strategy.

Gone are the days when a nation's security could be measured by bombers and battleships. Security in this new era requires harnessing all of America's strengths: the force of our diplomacy; the might of our military; the vigor and competitiveness of our economy; and the power of our ideals.

ASP brings together prominent business leaders, policy makers, retired military flag officers, and government officials to build consensus on complex global challenges through honest, open dialogue on a broad range of issues. The organization engages and empowers the American public through events, traditional & new media, meetings, and publications.

America – and the world – needs an honest dialogue about security that is as robust as it is realistic. ASP exists to promote that dialogue, to forge that consensus, and to spur constructive action so America meets the challenges to its security while seizing the opportunities that abound.

About the Business Council for American Security

The Business Council for American Security (BCAS) is an exclusive gathering of leading firms across industry aligned in their support of a broad definition of American national security for the 21st century. These leaders believe in a vision of American security that extends beyond bombs and bullets. In its inaugural year, BCAS members who join at the 3-star level will enjoy the rich member benefits of the 4-star membership tier.

BCAS members benefit from ASP's convening power. The Council offers the opportunity to build substantive partnerships among business leaders and provides a platform for exchange, dialogue, and networking. Participation enables members to engage in important national security discussions, and as a result, BCAS members are better equipped to navigate a changing global landscape.
